CLEVELAND TO THE GERMANS.

Given an Enthusiastic Reception at Cooper Union Last Night.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The German-American Cleveland Union held a great mass meeting in Cooper Union, the large hall being packed with people, nearly as many more being unable to gain admittance. Enthusiasm was at white heat throughout the proceedings, tumultuous applause greeted Cleveland, Carl Schurz, Oswald Ottendorfer and leading German-American citizens as they came upon the platform.

Ottendorfer called the meeting to order and in a brief speech stated its objects. As Ottendorfer was closing a mighty cheer arose near the southern entrance to the hall and the band struck up "Hail the Chief." At once Mr. Cleveland was seen coming down the aisle toward the rear entrance to the stage and the vast assemblage stood up and cheered, yelled and waved hats and handkerchiefs. As Mr. Cleveland appeared on the stage a whirlwind of applause swept over the hall, continuing for fully five minutes.

William Steinhilber acted as chairman and in introduced Grover Cleveland who said in part:

"Fellow citizens: When I address you as my fellow citizens, I use a salutation common on occasions like this and one which ordinarily carries with it no greater meaning than customary greeting. It is at once apparent that we can only apply these words to American fellow citizens—proud of the land in which they live, proud of American institutions, and devoted to the achievement of American success and greatness.

But there is another and exceedingly important meaning to these words, which arises from the idea of a fair and equal community of interest, which they naturally suggest. If we are to be truly fellow citizens we must have not only a common purpose, but a common division of the benefits arising from our association. Our citizenship grows out of our allegiance and devotion to the Government which claims our patriotic support, but we can hardly be accused of straining the meaning of the words when we insist that if we are to be fellows in our citizenship, this fellowship is only realized when we enjoy in an equal and just manner the advantages of our citizenship. Whether this is our actual condition at this time is the subject of anxious popular inquiry. We find a political party soliciting the suffrage of our people in support of the doctrine that this fellowship in our citizenship is secured when the prosperity of certain special interests is favored in making and executing our laws, and is made a direct charge upon industry of those not within the circle of governmental partiality."

IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER.

Joseph T. Engleby Appointed Receiver of the Roanoke Development and Guarantee Company.

On motion of the Virginia and North Carolina Construction Company Joseph T. Engleby has been appointed receiver of the Roanoke Development and Guarantee Company, to take charge of all assets, real and personal, of the said development and guarantee company.

This company was formed for the purpose of securing and giving the right of way entrance of the Roanoke and Southern Railway Company into this city. The company has made titles to this right of way upon which there are certain deferred payments that affect the title of this property. In order to straighten the complications arising under this condition of affairs, it was thought best by all parties concerned to apply to the courts to take the matter in hand.

Mr. Engleby, the former president of the company, was requested to serve as receiver. The receiver was required by the decree to file a bond in the sum of $10,000, which Mr. Engleby did, with his brother, John Engleby, as security. An injunction was also awarded by the judge of the Hastings Court restraining all parties holding liens upon any of the property of the Development and Guarantee Company endeavoring to enforce the same, except under the direction of the court.

The Musical Society.

The committee on constitution and by-laws of the proposed musical society have completed their labors and will make their report to the society at the meeting to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Hobbie Music Hall. Following the acceptance of the report the election of officers will take place. This being completed the society will be in shape to begin their rehearsals at once. It is earnestly hoped that all members and musicians who propose becoming members will be present at this meeting. Already great interest is manifested by those connected with the proposed organization, and a most successful inauguration of the society is looked forward to. The use of the room and a piano have been secured without charge, and there will be no expense whatever devolving upon the active membership of the society.

A Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the stockholders of the Phoenix Land Company, which was to be held at the Crocus Club yesterday, was postponed on account of the sickness of the secretary, Mr. M. Strause, who is ill with the fever at his residence on Salem avenue.

All the latest pantomimic suggestions from the Drury Lane Theatre, London, are introduced in M. B. Leavitt's most beautiful burlesque extravaganza, "Spider and Fly," which will appear here Tuesday.

Water Clocks of Olden Times.

It appears that the Assyrians were the first people to divide the day into portions of time, also that they were the inventors of the clepsidra, or water clock, the division of time and the invention both belonging to a period too remote for precise calculation. All that we know of the history of the clepsidra is that the apparatus was in use at the time of the overflow of the first Assyrian empire, B. C. 759.

This water clock, the first of the time-keepers, was nothing more than a cylindrical brass vessel capable of holding several gallons of water. At one side there was a very small hole through which the water was allowed to trickle, something after the fashion of the emptying of an hourglass. From experiments made on recently discovered clepsydras it is calculated that one would empty itself about once every two hours. Under the reign of Phil, the royal palace of Nineveh, as well as each of the principal districts of the city, possessed a water clock of the same size, shape and capacity. They were filled at a signal from the watchman on the tower, who was stationed there to proclaim the moment of the rising of the sun.

During the day they were in the custody of officials whose duty it was to fill them as often as they became empty. Besides these "time masters" there was a regular staff of clerks, working under municipal authority, who, as often as the clocks were emptied, passed through the principal streets announcing the fact for the benefit of the people in general. In this way our remote ancestors managed to get a rough computation of the flight of time.—St. Louis Republic.

The Old Mesmerist in a New Role.

A Russian hypnotist and mind reader gave an entertaining séance at Metropolitan temple last night. At his request twelve gentlemen took seats on the stage, and to each of them the doctor gave a small crystal prism set in the center of a dark stone. He requested them to hold the crystals in their right hand about eighteen inches from the eyes and to gaze fixedly at them. Mesmeric passes were made over their faces, and after the lapse of a few minutes three of the gazers had fallen asleep. The others were dismissed.

With these three subjects the doctor produced some remarkable phenomena. He induced them to imagine that they were on the seashore and to imitate bathers and victims of a terrible shipwreck. Then they made the audience laugh by beginning to disrobe for a bath, and the manner in which they swam and floundered on the carpet was most ludicrous.

Two of the subjects were placed side by side facing the spectators, while the doctor calmly threaded a sack needle with twine. Obeying to his command the subjects opened their mouths and he drew the needle and thread through the upper lip of each, literally sewing them together. The subjects did not betray the slightest indication that they suffered the least pain, and he made them sing while in that condition. Several gentlemen were called upon the stage to examine the thread in order to satisfy them that it was no trick.

Then the doctor drew out the thread and showed that not a drop of blood had flowed from the holes or stained the thread.—San Francisco Examiner.

Sound of a Sunbeam.

One of the most wonderful discoveries in science that has been made within the last year or two is the fact that a beam of light produces sound. A beam of sunlight is thrown through a lens on a glass vessel that contains lamphack, colored silk or worsted, or other substances. A disk having slits or openings cut in it is made to revolve swiftly in this beam of light, so as to cut it up, thus making alternate flashes of light and shadow.

On putting the ear to the glass vessel strange sounds are heard so long as the flashing beam is falling on the vessel. Recently a more wonderful discovery has been made. A beam of sunlight is caused to pass through a prism so as to produce what is called the solar spectrum or rainbow. The disk is turned, and the colored light of the rainbow is made to break through it.

Now place the ear to the vessel containing the silk, wool or other material. As the colored lights of the spectrum fall upon it sounds will be given by different parts of the spectrum, and there will be silence in other parts.

For instance, if the vessel contains red worsted and the green light flashes upon it loud sounds will be given. Only feeble sounds will be heard if the red and blue parts of the rainbow fall upon the vessel, and other colors make no sound at all. Green silk gives sounds best in a red light.

Every kind of material gives more or less sound in different colors and utters no sound in others.—Pearson's Weekly.

His Dog Retrieved the Bomb.

A rather reckless Blanford man, with no respect for law or gospel, is said to have devised a scheme for catching trout by the wholesale, which did not work as well as he thought.

He thought that a bomb exploded in the brook would bring all the fish in it to the surface, so that he would only have to pick them up. He provided himself with a bomb powerful enough to blast a schooner out of water and went to a local brook in which there were said to be lots of trout. He fixed the fuse, ignited it and threw the bomb into the brook.

As he did so his dog jumped in after it, seized it in his mouth, got back to shore and started after his master, who was legging it across the field as fast as he could in the realization of his danger. The man had the good luck to get over a good bit of territory, and a moment later, hearing an explosion, he looked around to see his dog going skyward.—Lewiston Journal.

A Very Strong Hint.

Gus De Smith arrived a little late at a sociable given by Mrs. Dey Street. When he arrived he sought her presence, and having found her said:

"I beg a thousand pardons for coming so late."

"My dear sir," replied the lady, "you can never come too late."

Gus thinks this is a hint to stay away altogether.—Texas Siftings.

FIVE NEW BUCKEYES.

THEY MAKE THEIR DEBUT IN NATIONAL POLITICS.

Many New Faces Will Appear in the Ohio Delegation to the Next Congress. A Candidate Who Makes Chewing Gum. Congressman Harter's Opponent.

[Special Correspondence.]

CANTON, O., Oct. 27.—The Ohio congressional conventions this year were remarkable for the reason that a majority of the candidates named by them were men almost unknown in national politics. This is true of both Republicans and Democrats, and the Buckeye representation in the next congress will be distinguished for the new faces it will contain. A majority of the present members of the house failed in their efforts to secure a renomination. Some declined to run again, and new men, almost strangers to national politics, forged ahead and secured the prizes in conventions.

In the Twentieth Ohio district Congressman Burton gave way to W. J. White, who was selected by the Republican caucus after a spirited contest. Mr. White is best known as a manufacturer of chewing gum at Cleveland. He was not suspected of having political aspirations until he went into convention and walked away with the nomination. His district is considered safely Republican, and Mr. White, therefore, is reasonably sure to occupy a seat in the next house.

He is forty-two years of age, and a successful business man. He began making chewing gum in 1876, and his factory has grown to big proportions. He is married, a man of refined tastes and reckoned one of the Forest City's substantial residents. He has never held political office.

E. G. Johnson, Republican candidate in the Fourteenth district, who is making the race against Congressman Michael D. Harter, the well known Democratic leader, is also a new man in politics. His nomination was accomplished after a deadlock in convention, the Republican majority in the district calling out several candidates. Captain Johnson is a native of Lorain county, O., and was born in 1836. He taught school for awhile, studied law and was admitted to the bar. At twenty-one years of age he was elected justice of the peace, and later was chosen county auditor. He has served as Republican committeeman and taken an active part in local politics, but his entrance into a wider political field dates from his congressional nomination. Mr. Johnson served in the Union army during the war, and since 1876 has devoted himself to the practice of law in Elyria, his home.

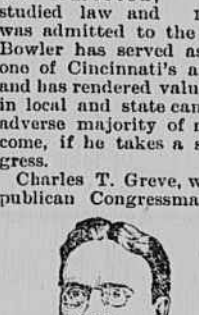

James A. D. Richards, Democratic candidate in the Seventeenth district, has a majority of some 4,000 behind him, and thinks he is as good as elected now. He is a physician, and was chairman of the convention which nominated him against his protest. He has never figured in politics, save to the extent of voting. He resides with his family at New Philadelphia. His district is the one represented some years ago by Beriah Wilkins, banker and Democratic politician, and now business manager of the Washington Post.

Robert Bowler and Charles T. Greve, Democratic candidates in the First and Second districts (Cincinnati), are counted among the leading attorneys at the Hamilton county bar.

Mr. Bowler is making the race against Bellamy Storer, at present the Republican congressman from the First district. He is an uncle of the late Senator Pendleton and was born in 1856, was given a liberal education in France, Germany and America, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1885. Mr. Bowler has served as mayor of Clifton, one of Cincinnati's aristocratic suburbs, and has rendered valuable aid to his party in local and state campaigns. He has an adverse majority of nearly 2,000 to overcome, if he takes a seat in the next congress.

Charles T. Greve, who is opposing Republican Congressman Caldwell in the Second district, was born in 1863, and has lived in Cincinnati all his life. He was graduated from Harvard college in 1884, and in 1885 was admitted to the bar. He is possessed of considerable oratorical talent, and his friends predict for him a brilliant future. Mr. Greve is one of the youngest men ever honored with a congressional nomination in Ohio.

Heroic Telegraph Operators. Before Petersburg an operator brought his instrument to the front within musket range of the rebels and quietly clicked away while cannon balls flew all about him. A German authority on military telegraphs doubts this, but there were numerous cases of American operators who worked on the field of battle amid the hail of bullets and shells.

Increasing Their Force.

The West End Rolling Mill resumed work five weeks ago with only a few hands and running a small number of furnaces. One hundred and fifty men are now working steadily and twenty furnaces are in operation. Furnaces and hands have been added continuously since the work began, and the likelihood is that a full force will soon be at work.

National Building Company,

C. O'LEARY & CO., MANAGERS.

This company, having been here but a very short time, has done a very good business in enabling our rent-paying citizens to have homes built for themselves next season. Houses will be erected for these people in almost every part of our city. It is not confining itself to any one piece of property, as building and loan men sometimes say, who are jealous of our company because we are a friend of the laboring man and do not charge him any membership, premiums, etc. This company is no building and loan company, but a Building Company, incorporated and run by men of honor and ability. The company's standing is very good, having sold the past six months nearly 3,000 paid-up shares and about 8,000 shares on installments, and is the owner of real estate to the value of about $100,000. This company is the only one in the United States working upon the principles set forth in its prospectus, which anyone can secure by addressing
